

Information, Data and Media Literacy

Video transcript

Conclusion and thanks

Congratulations! You have now completed all the chapters and reached the end of our Information, Data and Media Literacy course.

First, you learned the basic terms and concepts of IDM, illustrated by a parable about the memory palace and the people who live in it.

In the second chapter we discussed plagiarism in academia. You learned what plagiarism is, why it's important to cite sources correctly, and how to avoid plagiarism.

The third chapter presented helpful strategies for self-regulated academic learning, with a particular focus on time and task management.

We hope you will benefit from the skills you learned on this course in your studies, but also in your future work and daily life. Thank you very much for participating and we wish you all the best.
